Senior Defence Transformation Advisor

Adam Smith International is currently implementing a DFID funded 3 year Security Sector Development & Defence Transformation project in Southern Sudan. The project will continue until end of January 2012.

ASI is seeking to recruit a Senior Adviser on Defence Transformation. Candidates should be retired senior officers who have assisted the planning, implementation and monitoring of substantial organisational change programmes within armed forces of developing countries, preferably in Africa, intended to strengthen the accountability and affordability of those forces. Candidates should have significant experience of strengthening strategic planning systems, command and control mechanisms, the alignment of human resource management, finance and logistics to strategic development plans, and coordination between armed forces and ministries of defence. Candidates should have several years experience of consulting and working in conflict-affected environments. The role will require advisers to make up to four trips to Southern Sudan per year, each visit being several weeks.

CVs and cover letters should be sent to Myles.Bush@AdamSmithInternational.com before the 15th of August.
